FORT MASON CENTER

January 1986

FMC YEAR-END REPORT

Looking back at 1985—our ninth year of operation—there are highlights which indicate that Fort Mason Center's evolution into an important Bay Area institution continues.

Qualitatively, 1985 was clearly our best year. Among the many successes of Fort Mason Center resident groups are the following:

- —Mexican Museum's selection to receive a significant portion of Nelson Rockefeller's Mexican folk art collection.
- —Magic Theatre's highly successful season which resulted in long extensions of its original productions.
- —The critically-acclaimed Summer Festival of Popular Theater—"We Shall Be Heard"—presented by the People's Theater Coalition.
- —Bay Area Lawyers for the Arts' selection for the Business/Arts Award by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce for their contribution to the Bay Area arts community.
- —Friends of the River/Tuolumne River Preservation Trust's success in gaining Wild and Scenic River status for the Tuolumne River.
- —San Francisco School of Dramatic Art's rapid growth as a diversified, high-quality resource for the Bay Area performance community.

Noteworthy among new arrivals at Fort Mason in 1985 was the Museo ItaloAmericano—an outstanding cultural facility offering not only excellent exhibitions but also Italian language classes, films, and lectures by experts in Italian art and culture. It joined the six other museums and galleries at Fort Mason, making it possible to visit a wide variety of cultural exhibits and activities at Fort Mason every day of the week.

New events at Fort Mason in 1985 included the San Francisco Art Institute Masters' Show, an excellent exhibit of the work of the Art Institute's graduating master class. Also, the San Francisco Basketball Marathon, the West German Festival, and the "40 Years Later" celebration occurred in Fort Mason Center's piers for the first time.

Quantitatively, there were 15,000 events, presented by 500 organizations, which brought 1.7 million visitors to Fort Mason Center in 1985—all high-water marks in our effort to make maximum use of these wonderful facilities.

Finally, 1985 saw Fort Mason Center designated a National Historic Landmark—the highest designation which can be accorded a site deemed historically significant. It guarantees the protection of Fort Mason Center, and its future as a resource to the Bay Area community.

What has happened in the past few years is the development of a healthy balance between the ongoing high-quality programs produced by the 52 resident nonprofit organizations and the startling diversity of the 450 other organizations which produce one-time spectaculars such as the Tahitian Dance Festival, the San Francisco Fall Antiques Show, the Firefighters' Chili Cook-Off, and the City of Hope Benefit Garage Sale. This assures us both stability and opportunity for experimentation and change—both qualities which we value at Fort Mason Center.

1986 promises to be a year with many exciting announcements relating to our efforts to complete the upgrade of Fort Mason Center's buildings and piers. We will keep you informed as there is news. However, on the program side we are happy to announce the return—after a two-year absence—of the American Crafts Council Fair (formerly the Pacific States Crafts Fair) which will take place in August. It is an event which we were sorry to see leave and had hoped to have return. In addition, the first Landscape and Garden Show will occur at Fort Mason Center in 1986, as well as a special cultural event produced by the Jewish Community Federation. We expect the first Bay Area showing by the Mexican Museum of their Rockefeller collection of folk art, and the return of many of the events referred to above. And don't miss the annual sail of the S.S. Jeremiah O'Brien in May. It's an extraordinary event.

It will be an exciting year for Fort Mason Center, and we hope you will continue to participate, produce, and contribute to San Francisco's regional cultural center by the Bay: Fort Mason Center.

Thank you, and peace and health to you in 1986.

PHELAN ART AWARD WINNERS AT WORLD PRINT GALLERY

Three California artists, 1985 winners of the James D. Phelan Art Award in Printmaking, will show their work in a group exhibition at the World Print Gallery this month.

Although place of birth rather than place of residence is the initial qualification for this award, the three artists are both California natives and state residents.

Ralph Gilbert, born and currently living in Los Angeles, makes monotypes whose printed surfaces are then expressively worked with layers of paint. The figurative narratives or tableaux set in ambiguous spaces are compatibly married to the long or tall human-scale formats which Gilbert usually prefers.

Doug Minkler, born in Lynwood and currently living in Richmond, combines a concern for topical political issues and an awareness of the persuasive capabilities of formal and esthetic qualities into prints that function as posters in their intention to communicate to a broad audience. Revealing an expert control of the silk-screen medium, Minkler uses text with figurative imagery that is often abstract but always recognizable, direct and powerful.

Efram Wolff, born in Los Angeles, currently lives in Van Nuys. Like his co-exhibitors, he works with human figures. He situates them in narratives that are exquisite in their use of intaglio and nostalgic in their incorporation of images from earlier times. The complexity of Wolff's work arises from a tension between this sense of refinement and a concurrent sense of irony and whimsy, even menace, danger and disaster.

The James D. Phelan Art Award recognizes and rewards the achievements of California-born artists in a variety of disciplines. Sponsored by The San Francisco Foundation, the Phelan Art Award was established by James D. Phelan (1861-1930), former mayor, U.S. Senator, and supporter of the arts, who wanted to reward the achievements of artists born in California. In addition to the group exhibit, each artist will receive a $2,500 cash award.

Jurors for the 1985 award were Donald Farnsworth, artist and Director of Magnolia Editions in Oakland, and Louise Lewis, critic and Director of the Art Gallery and Professor of Art History at California State University, Northridge.

The exhibit can be seen through January 25, Tuesday through Saturday, 11am to 6pm at the World Print Gallery in Building A. For information, call 776-9200.

FMC GALLERIES: A SAMPLER

To freshen and enliven your spirit for the new year, spend some time visiting the galleries at Fort Mason Center on a crisp, clear January afternoon.

African American Historical & Cultural Society presents "Martina Dingus On Parade," featuring life-size human figures and masks made of plastic, fabric, and other unconventional materials that are often discarded. AAHCS provides information about the culture and history of African Americans. In addition to changing exhibits, the Society's programs include a library, museum, gift shop, Black History Hall of Fame, discussions of Black literature, a Black writers' workshop, poetry readings, and seminars. January 2-31, Tuesday through Saturday, 12 Noon-5pm, 441-0640.

Museo ItaloAmericano presents "David Bottini: Survey, 1977-1985." Bottini works in the constructivist or cubist tradition, mainly in steel sculpture, producing pieces ranging from one to five feet in height. His life-size works of brightly colored painted steel combine vertically-sweeping obelisk elements with angular contours. The Museo offers continuing exhibits, as well as Italian language classes, films, and lectures on Italian art and culture. January 16-March 9, Wednesday through Sunday, Noon-5pm, 673-2200.

Martina Dingus life-size masks

Perception Gallery presents the Annual Members' Show of Sight & Insight, a collective organization that develops individual creative potential. Sight & Insight organizes gallery discussions, field trips and art workshops, and manages Perception Gallery. This exhibit includes painting, sculpture, drawing, prints, ceramics, and photographs. January 2-26, daily, Noon-4pm, 776-0347.

SF Museum Of Modern Art Rental Gallery presents paintings by Michi Itami and Sandy Walker. Both are contemporary painters of oil-on-canvas landscapes, but with a distinctly Oriental sensibility. Itami's works convey the impression of Chinese or Japanese Sumi-e painting. Walker, in describing the process of creating his paintings, says "your movements are a dance." SFMOMA Rental Gallery not only features ongoing exhibits of modern art but also performs a valuable service to artists and art patrons alike by renting the works of new and local artists to businesses and individuals. Over 350 artists are represented, from avant-garde to conservative, and the price range is very wide. January 7-31, Tuesday through Saturday, 11:30am-5:30pm, 441-4777.
